SHIPPING COST

Ground shipping in 48 US states is $9.95, 2nd Day Air $25.95, ALL OTHER AREAS CALL FOR RATES.

Outside US call for rates 1.410.682.6363. EXCEPTIONS: GIFT BASKETS Ground $9.95, for Air CALL FOR SHIPPING RATE.

NOTE: All shipping Rates: Air Shipments are limited up to 6 pounds and ground shipments up to 7 pounds, over this amount addition shipping may be added to invoice.

PAYMENT

Enclose your check (US Bank) or Money Order payable to: SUGARLESS SHOP, INC. or use you're VISA, MASTERCARD, AMERICAN EXPRESS or DISCOVERCARD. There will be a $25.00 fee for all returned checks. Sorry we do not accept COD orders. Prices are subject to change without notice.

DELIVERY

Items are shipped UPS to ensure proper handling and prompt delivery of your order we must depend on you to provide us with the correct street address, including apartment number when ordering. Sorry we cannot deliver to PO Boxes. Usually orders are shipped out within 3 business days after order is received but occasionally we are temporarily out of stock of an item and for your convenience will hold your order until that product is received. When ordering chocolate with a cold pack, please make sure someone is at the ship to address to receive the shipment so it will not sit in the hot sun all day.

RETURNS

If the product you order is defective or you receive a product you did not order, we will quickly and happily replace the product upon request. If you need to return a product, please call for a return authorization number. Returns will be accepted under the following conditions:

- (a) the item must be returned within 15 days of shipment date.
- (b) and the item must be unopened.
- (c) and the item must not be expired.
- (d) a return authorization number.

NON-CALORIC
NutraSweet® (Aspartame)	Discovered in 1965, aspartame is a low-calorie sweetener which is approximately 180 times sweeter than sucrose. It is sold in the United States under the brand name NutraSweet® by Monsanto, and is also sold by Holland Sweetener Company. Aspartame is made from two amino acids (protein components) -- L-phenylalanine and L-aspartic acid. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approved aspartame in 1981 for use in tabletop sweeteners and various foods and dry beverage mixes, making it the first low-calorie sweetener approved by FDA in more than 25 years. In 1983, FDA approved it for use in carbonated beverages; today aspartame has established itself as an important component in many low-calorie, sugar-free foods and beverages.
Acesulfame K Acesulfame Potassium	Discovered in 1967 by Hoechst AG, acesulfame potassium (also known as acesulfame K) is a high-intensity, non-caloric sweetener. It is approximately 200 times sweeter than sucrose. Acesulfame potassium has a clean, quickly perceptible, sweet taste that does not linger or leave an aftertaste. Acesulfame potassium is not metabolized by the body and is excreted unchanged. It is sold under the brand name Sunett™ by Nutrinova, Inc., a Hoechst subsidiary.
Saccharin	A non-caloric sweetener found in many foods and beverages. The good news is that it has a stable shelf life and great versatility. Saccharin is not metabolized (it passes through the body unchanged) and does not react with DNA (nucleic acid present in all living cells), meaning that saccharin lacks two of the major characteristics of a classical carcinogen.
Splenda® (Sucralose)	Sucralose is the only non-caloric sweetener made from sugar. Sucralose is derived from sugar through a multi-step patented manufacturing process that selectively substitutes three atoms of chlorine for three hydroxyl groups on the sugar molecule. This change produces a sweetener that has no calories, yet is 600 times sweeter than sucrose (table sugar). Sucralose tastes like sugar. It has a clean, quickly perceptible, sweet taste that does not leave an unpleasant aftertaste. The exceptional stability of sucralose allows both food manufacturers and consumers to use it virtually anywhere sugar is used, including cooking and baking.
CALORIC
Fructose & Fruit Juice	The sweetest and most soluble is found in fruits and vegetables. Fructose & Fruit Juice is absorbed more slowly than glucose into the blood stream. Unlike glucose, most fructose is metabolized in the liver, meaning it does not require an initial insulin response to move from the blood directly into the cells for metabolism. Fructose is a carbohydrate and always must be used carefully, because it has the same caloric value as other sugars. Foods with added fructose are never "free" foods, they must be substituted for fruits in your meal plan. Fructose & Fruit Juice on a NUTRITION FACTS charts shows up as sugars, so be careful not to mistake it for sugar.
Sugar Alcohol or Sugar Alc.	Sugar Alcohol is neither a "sugar" nor an "alcohol". Sugar Alcohol's such as Maltitol, Sorbitol, Mannitol, Xylitol, or HSH (commonly known as Lycasin®) affect the blood glucose levels less dramatically than regular table Sugar (sucrose) as they are digested and absorbed much slower. Although Little or no insulin is needed for metabolism of sugar alcohol's they still must be counted as a carbohydrate in the meal plan. Sugar alcohol's are not free foods. Foods containing "sugar alcohol's" but no sugar can be labeled " SUGARFREE " according to the FDA. We suggest only consuming the recommended serving size as excess consumption can cause abdominal discomfort and / or a laxative affect.
Sorbitol	Sorbitol, a polyol (sugar alcohol), is a bulk sweetener found in numerous food products. In addition to providing sweetness, it is an excellent humectant and texturizing agent. Sorbitol is about 60 percent as sweet as sucrose with one-third fewer calories. It has a smooth mouth feel with a sweet, cool and pleasant taste. It is non-cariogenic and may be useful to people with diabetes. Sorbitol has been safely used in processed foods for almost half a century. It is also used in other products, such as pharmaceuticals and cosmetics.
Maltitol	Maltitol is a member of a family of bulk sweeteners known as polyols or sugar alcohols. It has a pleasant sweet taste—remarkably similar to sucrose. Maltitol is about 90% as sweet as sugar, non-cariogenic, and significantly reduced in calories. Maltitol is made by the hydrogenation of maltose which is obtained from starch. Like other polyols, it does not brown or caramelize as do sugars. Maltitol's high sweetness allows it to be used without other sweeteners. It exhibits a negligible cooling effect in the mouth compared to most other polyols. Although maltitol is often used to replace sugars in the manufacture of sugar-free foods, it may also be used to replace fat as it gives a creamy texture to food. May be useful for people with diabetes because it does not raise blood glucose or insulin levels. Excess consumption (over 15 grams (may be listed as sugar alcohol's) may have a laxative effect.)
Xylitol	Xylitol is a monosaccharide polyol derived from fruits and vegetables (such as lettuce, carrots, strawberries) and from fibrous plants.
H S H Lycasin®	(Hydrogenated Starch Hydrolysate) also called (Lycasin®) HSH are produced by the partial hydrolysis of corn, wheat or potato starch and subsequent hydrogenation of the hydrolysate at high temperature under pressure. The end product is an ingredient composed of sorbitol, maltitol and higher hydrogenated saccharides (maltitol and others). By varying the conditions and extent of hydrolysis, the relative occurrence of various mono-, di-oligo- and polymeric hydrogenated saccharides in the resulting product can be obtained. A wide range of polyols (also known as sugar alcohols) that can satisfy varied requirements with respect to different levels of sweetness, viscosity and humectancy can, therefore, be produced.
Isomalt	Isomalt is a unique, excellent tasting sugar-free sweetener. Because the same amount of isomalt is used in products as would be used if they were sweetened with sugar, isomalt-containing products have the same appearance and texture as those made with sugar. Discovered in the 1960s, isomalt is made from sucrose and looks much like table sugar. It is white, crystalline and odorless. Isomalt is a mixture of two disaccharide alcohols—gluco mannitol and gluco sorbitol. Isomalt has been used in the United States for several years in products such as hard candies, toffee, lollipops, fudge, wafers, cough drops and throat lozenges. It has been available in Europe, however, since the early 1980s and is currently used in a wide variety of products in more than 40 countries worldwide.
